Final Car of PRR's "Sunshine Special" Goes Over Mountain

Pullman Porter is Killed, 11 Passengers Injured In New Rail Disaster

Gallitzin, Pa., Feb. 28—(AP)—The last car of the Pennsylvania railroad's New York-to - Texas "Sunshine Special" tore loose from the train at the peak of the Alleghenies in pre-dawn darkness today, careened wildly down the mountainside and plowed into an embankment, killing a Pullman porter and injuring 11 passengers.

The car, racing backward for three and a half miles, remained on the tracks until it reached Bennington curve — exact spot where the PRR's "Red Arrow" wrecked 10 days ago and killed 24 persons.

Striking the bend of the treacherous curve, the sleeper's wheels flew off the tracks amid screams of occupants and the car plowed into a dirt embankment.

The victim of the crash today was identified by the railroad as L. Keys, a Pullman employe who works out of the Houston, Tex., PRR district.

Railroad officials at Pittsburgh began an immediate investigation, centering the probe principally around why the car's automatic air brakes failed to operate.

Others Unaware

The train had stopped outside Gallatzin to take off one of two engines used to pull it up the treacherous and tough mountain climb.

Passengers in the other sleepers and coaches did not know the train had lost a car until it reached Pittsburgh, about 100 miles west of here.

Harry G. Willis, Jersey City, N. J., passenger who suffered a fracture of the right leg, said he was the first passenger to awake.

"I noticed the car racing down the mountainside but couldn't tell which way the car was going," he declared.

"The brakeman told all the passengers to get out of their berths

Would-Be Deer Poachers Held

Conservation Inspector Stoddard Danekas arrested two Rockford hunters near the Ogle Top farm east of Byron about 5:30 last evening, while driving along a road near where a herd of deer were feeding in a densely wooded section. Two loaded high powered rifles were found in the car of the hunters who could give no excuse for carrying the weapons. Shortly before the arrest, Danekas reported having heard a shot in the timber and observed the herd of deer race across the roadway.

The rifles and highpowered ammunition was confiscated by the arresting officer who filed a report of the incident with Conservation Inspector Paul Beebe of Forreston who was to confer with State's Attorney Donald Crowell at Oregon before the two hunters reported later today in compliance with the order issued by Danekas.

Reports reaching conservation inspectors who have been active in attempting to guard against poaching on the herds of wild deer in Ogle and Winnebago counties, today indicated that no less than three carcasses of deer shot during the past few days have been discovered this week.

Sterling Veteran Hangs Himself in Storeroom of Cafe

Eugene Near, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Near of Sterling took his own life by hanging in the storeroom of his father's restaurant in the Galt House, Sterling, Thursday evening, his body being found by his sister, Shirley, 15, when she entered the room at about 7:00 o'clock. The body was taken to the Wheelock funeral home in Rock Falls, where Whiteside county coroner Dr. C. M. Frye will conduct an inquest at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon and where funeral services will be held at 2:00 o'clock Monday afternoon. Burial will be in the Tampico cemetery.

The youth, discharged from the army last November after 10 months of service, had been in the restaurant kitchen about 6:40 o'clock, joking and laughing with employes, and apparently went directly to the storeroom after leaving.

Used Clothesline

A piece of clothesline, tied to a spike, passed over a projecting beam and noosed about the neck, had stretched enough to let the body rest with the knees on the floor.

Young Near had been working in the restaurant in recent weeks, and his family and fellow employes professed complete ignorance of any worries which might have induced him to take his life.

Surviving, in addition to his parents and sister, are three other sisters, Shirley, Beverley and Patsy, and four brothers, Russell, Jr., William, Everett and Lester.

The youth was born on a farm south of Rock Falls Aug. 6, 1927, and had been a resident of Sterling in recent years.

To Seek Jap Stragglers In Philippine Jungles

Manila, Feb. 28—(AP) — An American war crimes investigator will lead a 100-man Philippine army force through jungles of the Mayday Bay area of Palawan island next week in search of a garrison of Japanese stragglers.

The Japanese, reported to number 200, are believed to have participated in the torch massacre of 150 American prisoners of war in November, 1944.

Rochelle Divorcee Found Not Guilty of Death of Her Child

Judge Leon Zick Orders Acquittal on Motion of Defense Attorneys

Without a word of evidence offered in her defense, Mrs. Elizabeth Weeks of Rochelle, 27-year-old divorcee, on trial in Ogle county Circuit court, yesterday was acquitted of the charge of murdering her newborn infant last Dec. 22.

After State's Attorney S. Donald Crowell rested the state's case shortly before noon, Attorney Clark Countryman of DeKalb, who, with Attorney G. K. Fearer of Oregon defended Mrs. Weeks, moved for a directed verdict of acquittal.

They cited to Judge Leon A. Zick numerous decisions supporting their contention that the state had failed to prove its case, and the jurist took the motion under advisement during the noon recess.

Judge Directs Verdict

When court reconvened at 1 p. m., he ordered the jury of eight men and four women to bring in the verdict of acquittal, and when it had been returned, instructed Sheriff Joseph Maas to release the prisoner from custody.

The mutilated body of the infant, a boy born to Mrs. Weeks

Girl's Abduction is Labeled Fancy Hoax

Long Beach, Calif., Feb. 28—(AP)—A pretty high school girl's story of being abducted, bound, gagged, partly disrobed and tortured was labeled a hoax today by Joseph Kennick, director of the police juvenile bureau.

The girl, Jacquelyn Mae Stang, 17, was found Wednesday night by a passing motorist. Juvenile authorities said she told them a man accosted her and she lost consciousness. The officers said she related that when she regained consciousness the man was scratching her, laughing fiendishly and then burned her with a cigarette.

Kennick said that during questioning discrepancies were found in her story and she finally admitted she had burnt herself and bound herself with strips of her clothing.

The girl, daughter of a Long Beach business man, was ordered held in the detention home pending further investigation.

Scores Hurt in Fire Which Swept Huge Naval Dock at Pearl Harbor

Pearl Harbor, Feb. 28—(AP)—The Navy sought to find the cause today of a flash fire which swept a huge Pearl Harbor dock, sent 25 fire-fighters to the hospital and laid a smoke pall over the giant base.

Damage was expected to run into hundreds of thousands of dollars, and it might have mounted far higher but for 500 Navy and Marine fire-fighters who confined yesterday's blaze to a quarter-mile-long wooden dock.

At the height of the roaring fire, civilian workers moved more than 5,000 tons of supplies to a place of safety when the flames licked close to the adjacent warehouse area.

Fire broke out without warning in the oil-slick waters between the dock and the supply ship Oberon at 10:45 a. m. and within a few minutes had raced the length of the dock on the submarine side of the yard.

Crews of the Oberon and the nearby destroyer tender Sierra got their ships under way quickly and out into the safe channel as the flames spread along the oily waters, sending black smoke clouds billowing.

Four firefighting tugs and a dozen smaller craft equipped with hose moved in and shot water into the mass of flames, while shoreside firefighters poured on water and chemicals.

Twenty-five firefighters were overcome by smoke and were taken to Navy hospital. None was believed in serious condition. Navy authorities estimated that 100 others were treated for minor burns.

Approximately four hours after the flames broke out the fire was brought under control.

United States Army Rescue Squadron is Dispatched to Scene

Residents of Trinidad Reported Hanging to Tree-Tops, Roofs, Debris

West Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 28—(AP)—The Army today sent a rescue squadron of four flying boats speeding toward the town of Trinidad, in northern Bolivia, where upward of 3,000 persons were reported clinging to treetops, roofs and debris in imminent danger of drowning in a flood.

On direct orders from Washington, the Fifth Emergency Rescue squadron under command of Capt. Banta M. York took to the air on short notice and sped across the Caribbean Sea.

The word from Washington was that Trinidad, a town of 8,000 at a confluence of two rivers, was completely under water and that a majority of its inhabitants had been trapped.

The squadron was to alight at Balboa, Canal Zone, to refuel and for further orders before hopping to Bolivia.

Seek Help Elsewhere

La Paz, Bolivia, Feb. 28—(AP)—Bolivian diplomats in other American republics were under urgent instructions today to seek immediate aid in the rescue of inhabitants of a north Bolivian town reported almost covered by flood waters.

The town of Trinidad is vanishing and all its inhabitants will perish if they don't get help," said a foreign ministry note asking foreign governments yesterday to send amphibious planes to the capital of Beni department of the northern frontier.

"If the evacuation does not start tomorrow 1,200 children will drown," said a message yesterday from Heraclio Melgrar, Prefect of Trinidad.

(United States Army headquarters in Panama, Panama, dispatched a C-54 transport plane for La Paz yesterday with life rafts and life vests to be dropped in the flood zone).

Late reports said the water was rising and that only dry land in town was a plot about 30x1,050 feet near the main square. The

BULLETIN

Washington, Feb. 28—(AP)—Legislation setting up legal barriers against about $5,785,000,000 in portal-to-portal pay suits was approved by the house today and sent to the senate.

The senate public works committee voted 7 to 5 today to reject President Truman's nomination of Gordon R. Clapp as a director of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Washington, Feb. 28—(AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover suggested today that the United States exact from countries who receive relief from it a promise that they will repay some day—perhaps to a United Nations fund for future famine relief.

The former president advanced a number of other policy suggestions in testimony to the house foreign affairs committee which is considering President Truman's request for $350,000,000 for foreign relief.

One was that a new foreign government post—that of foreign relief administrator—be created to coordinate all American relief activities abroad.

Hoover suggested, too, that government relief be restricted to food, medicine, seed, fertilizer and perhaps some clothing. Under UNRRA, which stressed rehabilitation as well as relief, such things as locomotives and mill machinery have gone from the United States to war-ravaged countries.

Complicates Problems

The increasing demand on this country for relief threatened to complicate congress' problems in working out a budget for how much the government shall spend in the 12 months beginning July 1.

The senate was pushing toward a final vote on a proposal to set a ceiling on $33,000,000,000. This is $14,500,000,000 less than the $37,500,000,000 Truman has asked and which the house has voted to cut $6,000,000,000.

Whatever figure congress finally agrees on will stand, however, as only a goal. The legislators still will face the problem of fitting relief and other money demands under that ceiling.

By a vote of 7 to 5, the senate public works committee rejected the nomination of Gordon Clapp to be director of the Tennessee Valley Authority. He has been the agency's general manager and Truman nominated him for promotion when he chose David Lilienthal, then TVA head, to be chairman of the Atomic Energy Com-

$50 Concealed Weapon Fine

Robert Simpkins, colored, was found to be carrying a .32 caliber revolver when he was arrested by Patrolmen Van Meter and Steinberg and taken to the city jail. When arraigned before Police Magistrate Albert Kennedy, he assessed a fine of $50 and costs on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. Simpkins could furnish no excuse for toting the revolver, police said.

Theodore Boon, arrested by Patrolman Trotter, was assessed a fine of $10 and costs when arraigned before Justice J. O. Shaulis on a charge of assault and battery which was preferred by Robert Bosley.

Woman Is Fined

Joan Anderson, arrested by Police Chief Harry Fischer and Patrolman Bert Lorensen, who were called to the old wagon factory plant on Lincoln avenue at 8:20 Monday night, was assessed a fine of $50 and costs when arraigned before Justice Shaulis on an intoxication and disorderly conduct charge. The police report stated that the night watchman at the factory building heard a commotion at the front door of the office section shortly after 8 o'clock Monday night and when he opened the door to ascertain the cause, the woman fell into the doorway. She was remanded to the county jail in default of the fine but friends came to her rescue yesterday and secured her release upon payment of the balance of the amount.

Britain Reported to Have U. S. Relief in Greek Commitments

Discussed at White House Thursday; Hoover Gives Report on Europe

Washington, Feb. 28—(AP)—Britain, her domestic economy near the breaking point, was reported in congressional and diplomatic quarters today to have proposed that the United States take over her commitments in Greece on a large scale.

Although there was no White House confirmation, this was understood to have been the subject—at least in part—of a highly secretive White House conference yesterday among President Truman, his diplomatic advisers, and key legislators.

One source said that the United States would issue a statement soon on what part, if any, it would assume in helping bolster the shaky Greek government.

In London, a foreign office spakesman said British and United States discussions were under way in Washington on the problem of continuing the economic and military obligations in strife-torn Greece now borne by Britain.

British Out March 31

(The discussions, he added, arose out of the ending March 31, of Britain's commitment to maintain the Greek armed forces. The same spokesman said he saw no prospects of U. S. military forces being sent to the country after Britain's forces get out.

(Other government sources said Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin was planning to withdraw Britain's remaining 10,000 troops from Greece within the next three months.)

It was learned from diplomats in Washington that the whole problem of Greece, together with a report on Britain's waning resources, was laid before Secretary of State Marshall by Lord Inverchapel,

Huge Sugar Hoard Reported in Java

Washington, Feb. 28—(AP)—Senator McCarthy (R-Wis), said today "all sugar rationing controls could be lifted" if the United States could lay hands on a huge stock of sugar believed to be stored in the interior of Java.

"Witnesses tell us there are from 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 tons of sugar in Java," McCarthy told a reporter after a hearing by a senate banking subcommittee. "At the same time OPA and government witnesses say we need only about 1,200,000 to 1,700,000 tons to meet all domestic needs."

The subcommittee is conducting hearings on a proposal to continue sugar rationing and price controls for another year and shift these controls from OPA to the agriculture department.

H. Malcolm Baldridge, attorney for the United States Cane Sugar Refiners' association, testified yesterday a representative of the "Dutch sugar trust" told him there "may be 2,000,000 tons of sugar" in Java.

He said the clash between the Dutch and Indonesians made it difficult to determine how much sugar is available, or how to find and ship it.

Friction Between Truman, Congress May Cause Blowup

Washington, Feb. 28—(AP)—Cooperation between President Truman and the Republican-controlled congress appears to be wearing thin on domestic issues today, as the legislators near the end of their second month's work.

Truman and GOP leaders have maintained outward harmony on foreign policies, but there are signs that a blowup may not be far off on home affairs.

Although he called Republicans as well as Democrats to the White House yesterday for a highly secret discussion by Secretary of State George C. Marshall on European affairs, not since February 3 has Truman held any meeting with congressional leaders to talk over the legislative program.

At that session, only the second of its kind since the president said he intended to cooperate with congress for the welfare of the nation, the lawmakers said there had been a "desultory but congenial" conference on the state of the union. Everything of a controversial nature was avoided at the first meeting on January 16, those who attended reported.

Leaving for Vacation

Truman is leaving Washington Sunday for Mexico and later a Caribbean cruise and may be away when congressional committees have completed drafting labor disputes bills. Most legislators think these bills will offer the first big

Landlord Kills Tenant In Electric Bill Row

Taylorville, Ill., Feb. 28—(AP)—State's Attorney Thomas Sweeney today filed charges of assault with a deadly weapon against Homer Lipe, 62, in the shooting last night of James Mathis, 26.

Attendants at St. Vincent's hospital described Mathis' condition as critical.

Sweeney said Mathis was shot in the abdomen following a controversy with Lipe, his landlord, over use of electric current in an apartment occupied by Mathis and his wife and daughter. Lipe was held in the city jail.

Jewish Refugee Ship With 1,350 Aboard Intercepted by British

Jerusalem, Feb. 28—(AP)—A Jewish refugee ship, reportedly loaded with 1,350 unauthorized immigrants to Palestine, arrived at Haifa this morning under the guard of British destroyers which intercepted her off the coast.

British authorities immediately cleared the Haifa waterfront of civilians in preparation for deportation of the refugees, but this move was temporarily blocked by a restraining order which the Jewish Community council obtained from the Palestine High Court.

Sir William Fitzgerald, presiding justice of the court, directed Palestine authorities to show cause Tuesday why the deportation should be carried out.

Private sources said that five of the refugees had leaped overboard in an attempt to escape but had been picked up by the British navy.

The refugee ship was reported to have played a 12-hour game of tag with two British destroyers before she was brought into Haifa harbor.

Haifa is where Jews bound for Palestine without permits usually are taken off refugee ships and loaded onto British transports to be sent to Cyprus and interned, there to await admission to the Holy Land under the monthly immigration quota of 1,500 Jews.

Honolulu-New York Trip, 4,978 Miles, Made in 14 1-2 Hours

Pilots Win Daring Bid Against Headwinds as Plane Nears Goal

New York, Feb. 28—(AP)—The Army P-82 fighter Betty Jo completed a 4,978-mile non-stop flight from Honolulu today in 14 hours and 33 minutes, the longest distance ever flown by a fighter plane.

The official time of the flight was announced by a representative of the National Aeronautical Association at LaGuardia Field, who clocked in the plane at 10:06 a. m. (CST) as it roared over the field with ebbing gas tanks. The Betty Jo landed safely at 10:08:44 a. m. She took off from Hickam Field, Honolulu, at 7:33 p. m. (CST) last night.

Emergency equipment lined the runway of the big airport as the Betty Jo zoomed in, prepared for an emergency landing.

The pilot, Lt. Col. Robert E. Thacker, of El Centro, Calif., and Co-pilot Lt. John M. Ard of Inglewood, Calif., won a daring bid against 65-mile headwinds over Pennsylvania and dangerously low fuel tanks to reach their New York objective.

An hour later, they hit their mark.

New Type Fighter Plane

The Betty Jo is a new type long-range fighter which looks like two P-51 Mustang fuselages built into a single wing. The plane was named after Col. Thracker's wife.

The log of the Betty Jo as she roared eastward read like the flight of a magic carpet.

Speed was slackened somewhat because the crew was unable to jettison a gasoline tank to lighten the ship. Later, however, it reportedly dropped the tank near the west coast.

At take-off the plane weighed 30,000 pounds, nearly half of the weight in fuel, and believed the heaviest load ever pulled aloft by a fighter plane.

Cross Coastline In Dark

The Betty Jo reported crossing the California coastline in darkness 123 miles north of San Fran-

Britain, France In Alliance Pact

London, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin announced agreement on a British-French treaty of alliance in the House of Commons today.

Bevin said he and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault would sign the treaty next Tuesday at Dunkerque.

"It is evidence of the bonds of friendship" between the two countries, he said.

Dunkerque has special significance to the two countries as a scene of horror and defeat resulting from attempted wartime cooperation that fell short of its goal of stopping the Germans in 1940.

House Cheers

"Close and enduring friendship between the two nations is a contribution to world peace," Eden said, adding that members of the house "would all be with Bevin in spirit at Dunkerque."

The house members cheered.

Bevin's announcement did not include a delineation of the terms of the treaty, which was agreed upon in principle last month while Leon Blum, then French premier, was here for talks with Bevin and Prime Minister Attlee.

Fellowship of Prayer --

LIVING WORDS

And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us. John 1:14. Read John 1:1-14.

We are rash to endeavor to phrase thoughts capable of revealing the meaning of the Passion of our Lord. Some conceptions lie too deep for words; only life will make them clear. They must become flesh or remain mysteries.

Such were the thoughts of God. With all the universe to speak for Him, God yet needed a Son in the flesh, living and working among us, to make us understand His love. A former slave could not distinguish between Abraham Lincoln and Almighty God. Lincoln had become what the slave believed God to be. This Jesus succeeded in doing. God spoke in what Jesus was.

If we are to understand, we also must become living words. We refer to such a process when we say of a man that he is kindness itself. As we incarnate Christian virtue, we develop sensitivity to the inner drama of Holy Week. Meaning open to loving hearts which brilliant minds cannot understand.

Let US Pray: God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, "for the beauty of the earth, for the splendor of the skies, for the joy of human love," we give Thee hearty and grateful praise. But most of all we thank thee for the supreme gift of Thy Son. We do most earnestly believe in Him and have found in Him the way, and the truth, and the life. Amen.

Jesus Sums Up His Claims

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture: John 12:12-50; Mark 11:1-10

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

"Claims" do not seem quite the word to apply to the sayings of Jesus concerning Himself. The word suggests a self-assertiveness that was in no sense characteristic of the Master or His spirit.

He was confident concerning His mission and His teaching. He was sure that He had come from God, and that He was doing the Father's will. But He claimed no earthly greatness. He said He was among the disciples as one who served, that He had come to minister and not to be ministered unto, and His mission was to give His life a ransom for many.

So the word "claims" is not fully acceptable though Jesus did assert with clearness His divine nature, His divine mission, and His divine authority. That authority was of the truth inherent in the words He uttered.

He really made no claim except in th truth that He declared, and His divinity was in the completeness with which he did the Father's Will "In Him," wrote Paul (Colossians 2:9). "dwelleth all the fullness of the godhead bodily."

The revelation in Christ was of God's spiritual nature. His grace and love toward man, the message of which was the gospel that Jesus proclaimed.

I have never seen any value in speculation concerning the nature of Jesus, beyond that clear fact which His life and teachings, and His own declaration, establish—that He was one with the Father in His mission as the Saviour of men. "He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father also."

I sat once in a group of ministers where the discussion fell upon the question of the human limitations of Jesus. Obviously, there were limitations. He hungered and was athirst; He slept and He wept; He felt the need of rest and prayer; He was subject to temptation.

The writer of the Book of Hebrews has much to say about the reality of His humanity, in asserting at the same time that it was in that humanity that He revealed divinity, and that in Him God and man were united.

But in that company of ministers was one man who believed that Jesus in His earthly life had such unlimited knowledge and power that, if He had chosen to do so, He could have given to His age electric ligts and similar modern inventions.

To me, such an assumption is at once questionable, unnecessary, and distracting.It diverts attention from the uniquely moral and spiritual mission of Jesus.

He did not come into the world to give it new machines and inventions. He came to bear witness unto truth, to give men the message of God's love and to incarnate in Himself the love that he bade them to bear to one another.

His claim upon you and me is that we should love one another, as He has loved us.

British Coal Miners Get Second Food Hike

London, Feb. 28—(AP)—British coal miners got their second food boost in less than six months today along with priorities on housing in return for their promise to cooperate fully in reaching the government's coal production goal of 200,000,000 tons in 1947.

Prime Minister Attlee announced last night that his special "coal cabinet" had approved a scheme to send increased allotments of both rationed and unrationed foods to mining towns. There was no indication that individual rations would be increased, but rationed foods would be used in restaurants and bakeries.

The government increased miners' meat rations by 75 percent—from 28 to 48 cents worth of meat per week per person—last October, in one of its early attack on the coal crisis which now is afflicting the nation with unemployment and discomfort.

British Empire Being "Cast Away", Churchill

London, Feb. 28—(AP)—Winston Churchill, declaring that "our empire is being cast away," called on business men and industrialists today to do all they can to bring the labor government "to a speedy end."

(His reference was to the fact that Britain is ending her dominion over India and Burma, withdrawing from Egypt and seeking to turn over her Palestine mandate to the United Nations.)

Fruits combine with peanut butter to make delicious sandwich fillings. Try peanut butter with apple sauce, crushed pineapple, sliced or mashed bananas, or chopped stewed apricots or prunes. Peanut butter teams up deliciously with chocolate, malt, or olives. Accent the natural peanut flavor with pickles, cloves, vanilla or spices.

Income Tax Return Rules Explained by Jas. Marlow of AP

Here's Fifth of Series of Articles Prepared for Telegraph Readers

(Editor's note: This is the fifth of 12 stories explaining who must do what about his income tax return).

BY JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Feb. 28—(AP) — You can file your 1946 income tax return on the 1040 short form if—

Your income, from any source at all, was under $5,000. If it was $5,000 or over, you must use the 1040 long-form.

Form 1040 is a 4-page form. It can be used two ways: as a short form or as a long form. The main difference is:

On the short form you don't figure your tax. It's already figured for you in a tax table on the back. You must figure it on the long-form.

When you use the short form you don't list any deductions for things like medical expenses, charitable contributions, and so on.

You don't have to. Everyone using the short form automatically is allowed about a 10 per cent deduction. That's taken care of in the tax table.

If your deductions actually were more than 10 per cent of income, don't use the short form. You'll lose money. Use the long form.

With the long form you must itemize your deductible expenses but you can deduct for all of them.

Husbands and wives with combined income under $5,000 can filed separately or jointly on the short-form.

If their combined income is $5,000 or more, but individually less, they can file separately on the short form or jointly on the long form.

Don't Skip Around

Don't skip around on the short form. Start at the top, answering the questions as you go down.

You, married, have two children, you had $4,500 income from salary and $300 from dividends. Your wife had no income.

You write your name, address, Social Security number. Then you list as exemptions yourself, wife and two children, since they were dependent upon you.

Where it says "your income" you write your employer's name and address. List all your employers if you had more than one.

Then separately, list your $4,500 salary and $300 from dividends. Add the two. The total is $4,800. Turn to the tax table on page 4 to see what your tax is.

Because you're claiming four exemptions, look down the fourth column which shows that the tax on a man with four exemptions and $4,800 total income is $452. Write that on page 1, line 7.

That Withheld Money

But during the year the boss withheld from your $4,500 salary of $395. (In 1946 full tax was supposed to be withheld from all salaries and wages up to $5,000).

So you write that $395 — the tax withheld from you — alongside (A) under line 8, page 1.

You look at line 7—the $452 in total tax — and at line 8 — the $395 tax withheld. The difference —$57—is due to the tax on the $300 in dividends from which no tax was withheld in 1946.

So you write that $57—the difference between the tax withheld and the full tax owed—on line 9.

Then you sign the return, tear page 1 off the 4-page 1040 form, and turn it in to the collector of internal revenue by mail or in person.

But be sure, when you turn it in, that you also give the collector the $57 in tax still owed.

Note: if too much tax was withheld from you in 1946—and you find the collector owes you a refund—mark the amount owed you on line 10.

In such a case, since you owe no money, you just file the return and the collector will refund to you the amount of money you have been over-taxed.

(Saturday: Your exemptions).

China's Red Forces March on Changchun

Nanking, Feb. 28—(AP)—The roar of battle echoed through Changchun's suburbs today as fast-striking communist forces penetrated to within 10 miles of the Manchurian capital, government dispatches conceded.

Accounts from the field reaching Nanking declared government troops defending the capital had slowed the drive by throwing planes from bases at Mukden into the struggle.

Gen. Lin Piao, communist commander in Manchuria, hurling an estimated 250,000 men, supported by a sprinkling of tanks, into the offensive, aimed at Changchun from three directions.

New Snow, Sleet Fall on All of England

London, Feb. 28—(AP)—New snow and sleet slowed the movement of coal from British pits today and Prime Minister Attlee postponed setting a date for the switch-on of industrial power to London and south east England.

Attlee told the house of commons, however, that he might be able to announce the date during the week end if conditions improved. With industrial power already restored in the midlands and the northwest, unemployment has dropped by 624,000 he said.

Snow spread from the north of England to the south coast and more was expected. Temperatures hovered around freezing as they did over most of Europe, with no early prospect of a general thaw.

Trask Bridge Picnic to be Revived in '47

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 28—(AP)—The Trask Bridge picnic which in pre-war years often attracted as many as 50,000 celebrants and served as a political sounding board, will be revived this year.

Walter Potter, a key figure in the arrangements for the past 20 years, said one or more aspirants for the Republican presidential nomination will be invited to speak.

The picnic will be in the Charles Andrews woods, about 14 miles northwest of Rockford, where it had been held annually from 1911 until 1942.

Chicago — (AP) — A black mongrel dog which wandered into the Warren Avenue police station a few days ago made a fuss over Policeman Clarence Hayden, who said he doesn't like dogs.

But Hayden soon became the dog's champion although other policemen favored taking her to an animal shelter. Hayden allowed her the run of the station and fed her. Then he planned to take her home.

But he changed his plans last night. Police trailed the dog from the station and found she has a family of eight puppies hidden away in a nearby basement.

Rockford May Install Meters in Parking Lot

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 28—(AP)—The purchasing committee of the Rockford city council has recommended that the city install parking meters on its municipal parking lot and terminate its lease of the property to a private operator.

The meters, the committee proposed, would be installed as an experiment and for the purpose of studying the desirability of placing them eventually on all of the city's main streets.

Alderman Gustaf Johnson, a leader in the committee's proposal, said the parking rate probably would be 10 cents and that the plan was motivated more for needed off-street parking than for revenue.

Illinois Telephone Clerks Plan Strike

Chicago, Feb. 28—(AP)—Notice of intention to strike has been filed by the Federation of Telephone Clerks of Illinois, Richard W. Long, federation president announced yesterday.

Representing 2,300 clerks in the Illinois Bell Telephone Company's office in Chicago and 200 in Springfield, the union seeks a $12 pay increase per week, improved pension plan, and a reduction in the work week from 40 hours to 37½ without pay reduction.

A company spokesman said "frankly, we're surprised," adding that the $12 demand had been presented only yesterday, at which meeting "it was agreed that the company's counter-proposals would be submitted at the next meeting."

A Thought for Today

A man's pride shall bring him low: but honour shall uphold the humble in spirit.—Proverbs 29:23.

We rise in glory, as we sink in pride:
Where boasting ends, there dignity begins.

—Edward Young

The Country Press

Some of the most important things in life are taken for granted and accorded scant consideration until they cease to function. For instance, the occupants of a luxurious Pullman sleeper think little about the wheels on which it rolls. The most vital things are generally the least obvious. The country press goes in this category. But there would be no United States without the country press, any more than there would be a Pullman car without a wheel.

No nation in the world is so universally served with newspapers as is the United States. But the average citizen doesn't know this — he takes the newspaper for granted even in the smallest town. And yet without the newspaper, community affairs could not be conducted as they are. Try to think of your town without newspapers, even the smallest weekly. Where would you get the local news and the intimate information on births, marriages, deaths and the affairs of the community that at some time or other are so important to every family? Where would you read the proceedings of the county courts, the legal notices, the personal columns, the news about the local churches, lodges, and the advertising of the local merchants? The big city dailies carry the world news, but they cannot carry the day-to-day happenings of the smaller towns and cities.

Along with the school teacher, the local editor is responsible for the education of the community. A good editor comments on activities, local, state, and national, that affect the lives of all citizens. He discusses questions from the standpoint of their bearing on community welfare. He must have a good working knowledge of government, legislation, social conditions, industries, labor, taxation—the things that affect the working man, the businessman, and the family. The local editor accepts a real responsibility in publishing even the smallest paper, for when the reader sees something in print, he thinks it is the truth.

How many people appreciate these facts that underlie the ownership and publication of the 12,000 country newspapers in the United States? Those papers are the greatest safeguard of our nation's independence. They are individually owned, and the vast majority of their editors are well grounded in the ideals of constitutional government, and are opposed to trends toward socialism which disregard the importance of the individual. The country press reaches a majority of readers in the United States. It deserves more recognition than it receives. And in that respect it is like the wheel under a Pullman car, but with this difference: It is human and it can appreciate a word or act of encouragement while upholding the rights of others.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

(Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington—Five or more new sagebrush senators (Republicans) from the far west have been working together quietly on the highly pressured labor legislation. Their sparsely reported actions suggest that they may be leading up to the first formidable intra-party rebellion on the closed shop issue. One of their number, Nevada's George Malone, made a speech out west recently saying he would not vote to outlaw the closed shop. Instead he proposed abolition of the check-off system, whereby the company pays the unions dues and deducts the amount from individual paychecks.

These sagebrushers refer to eastern Republicans as "Dudes." They meet in private and are supposed to have sponsored a movement to get their local state unions together on an agreement for labor reform legislation. State locals around the Pacific coast area have shown some inclination to rebel against what they call the New York national leadership of their unions, particularly the communist influenced directors. The senators and their local leaders may think they have some unofficial understanding, if not a direct agreement.

The closed shop issue is, therefore, heading up into difficulties.

Basically the closed shop is a monopoly of employment. The unions can see plainly that business monopoly is repugnant to the interests of the public and to the Democratic capitalistic system itself. Industrial monopoly has been overwhelmingly opposed for many years because it can charge its own price for its products without fear of competition, but it is uneconomic for many other reasons. It can control production and public supply. It can withhold its products or release them. It can control the raw materials sources of its own supplies, being in varying degrees a large or largest user. It can even control the quality of product, because you are restricted in buying whatever it produces. You cannot walk across the street and buy competitively. But it is a permanent roadblock to free capitalism because it can prevent a competitor from ever getting started.

* * *

The unions cannot see that the same objections hold true concerning a closed shop monopoly of employment. This is not just a question of a man's right to work, although that right should be established. Economically a closed shop can upset a national economy. Without fear of competition, it can fix prices by its wage, hours and other demands increasing the cost of production; indeed forcing them ever upward from year to year in an inflationary spiral. Similarly it can allow the quality of product to deteriorate by its workmanship without fear of interference. It can keep competitive workers from getting jobs and thus restrain trade. From the standpoint of public good, a monopoly of the jobs is as wrong economically as a monopoly of a business.

Now some union authorities tell me the unions could bargain collectively without danger to their rights under a law outlawing the closed shop. Indeed several states started referendum machinery to ban the union monopoly at the last election. The unions generally are well financed and able to care for themselves in equal dealing with management. But the pressures of their leaders has been built up so strong here in congress that certain experienced Republican leaders think they might endanger the coming reform bill by giving priority to this angle. Consequently, the closed shop issue may wait for a second bill to be passed later in the session.

* * *

The project to outlaw industry-wide bargaining is in a little different shape. The AFL national leaders recognize that CIO promoted what is called the vertical union theory, but AFL is stringing along with CIO against any change in the existing union setups, possibly because of John Lewis' influence (he started CIO on the industry-wide basis). The tactics of the AFL locals, however, have been to deal locally with their employers, and consequently they are not as strongly wedded to the industry-wide bargaining idea. In any event, labor could probably get along without fundamental difficulty on a local basis because its national leaders generally plan the wage drives anyway. What is essential is that the contracts expire at different dates so as to prevent national strikes.

In these two primary matters congress has been trending away from the theory that the government should provide something like compulsory conciliation, by judicial boards, to consider, delay, ease down, or settle major strike threats. Indeed such influential authorities as the National Association of Manufacturers and Brookings Institution (a nonpartisan research foundation) are advocating the new reform line even to the extent of proposing elimination of government intervention.

In the end, however, congress is apt to get back to something very much like the Case bill program establishing government authority—adding a provision against industry-wide negotiations. It could pass overwhelmingly. The Republicans would not need to worry about losing many votes from their slim majorities on that issue. They can get enough Democratic votes to pass that over a presidential veto, and the situation calls urgently for some vastly popular corrections of that nature.

Farmers in 1946 broke all records in production of truck crops, corn, wheat, potatoes, rice, soybeans, tobacco, peaches, pears, plums and cherries.

As Pegler Sees It

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

(Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Somehow, I keep coming back to that fellow.

He sort of caught me that first day when they telephoned him that he was it, an ordinary, play-poker, play-piano county commissioner pitched into the most important, the most responsible and the most dangerous job in the world, and he said to the reporters, "Pray for me, boys: and I mean it."

We had been having a lot of neck-prayers on dress occasions before then, but never, in many a year, a spontaneous, mother's-knee prayer from the heart of a man who would say "Dear God, help me" and not seem to mean "how am I doin', partner?"

He can be happy without flippancy and I don't recall hearing a sneer out of him since he took over. He can be serious without being morose. He can get tough without nastiness, but if you like it that way, don't go bawling to your maw that he hit you with your own shinny-stick.

I will bet you I know a million Republicans, which is nonsense because nooody knows a million anybodies but, anyway, I know a lot of Republicans who wish he was their fellow so they could be for him.

Why can't they?

Well, you know, the union bosses, the new deal crowd, the bleeding hearts, the communists, the old girl — and all them. To be for him you have to be with them. To be for him you have to be with them and sort of B-squad, at that.

But I don't know.

Madam Perkins, she was new deal and where is she at now? Ickes. Where is he at? Wallace. Morgenthau. Biddle. Frankfurter. You don't hear much about Old Weemie any more, do you? Somebody must have taken up his latchkey. Nor the guy with the jawr. Remember Chester Bowles and all that commotion how yoo couldn't make an even trade of a pound of double-saws for a pound of hamburger if they canceled OPA? missing: Chester Bowles; no reward.

Leon Henderson. No thanks for the memory.

John Lewis. John had a permanent bead on Mr. Big and moved him around and kept him off balance and licked him every time they started. Then along comes Johnny One-Suit, always looking like his old maw just dressed him up and slicked his hair for the strawberry social and he belts John right through the skylight without even a glare. He just turned his back on the toughest mugg in town and when he came back from Key West, John's lawyers were fanning him with their hats and he was muttering. "He pulled a knife on me." Hexed him, he did. Hexed him bow-legged and the first guy to lick him since Girdler.

Do you notice how you don't notice his wife? No taffy pulls for the ladies of the press. No popping off about what the British ought to do to Franco. No cigars, cigarettes, souvenirs and nuts. No graft. Have you noticed how quiet it is? Maybe not, but you don't notice a tooth when it quits aching.

* * *

It has been a long time since you heard of Old Dan Tobin, of the Teamsters in and out of the White House, and the P. A. C. is buried alongside the Anti-Saloon League. Sidney Hillman and Wayne B. Wheeler settin' on a cloud bragging what they done and secretly calling each other the boastfullest old bore that ever lived, like Noah and the hero of the Galveston flood.

It took that fellow a spell to get the feel of the track, to learn timing and pace. He floundered on that proposition of 26 weeks at $25 a week for the laid-off war-worker after the U. A. W. had been boasting that it got the highest wages in history and even $80 a week for a sweeper.

I figure it was the old crowd who handed him that one, not so much that they hoped to get it as to show they had him for theirs. He was terrible on O. P. A. when he tried to save it for them, but I figure he was still listening when he should have been thinking.

Then, all of a sudden the fellow was there.

I remember the night Paavo Nurmi ran his first race in America in the Old Garden. Little Al Copeland the old sprinter and coach, was sitting there and after three or four laps he said, "Yep, this one is a runner."

And that is what I am thinking.

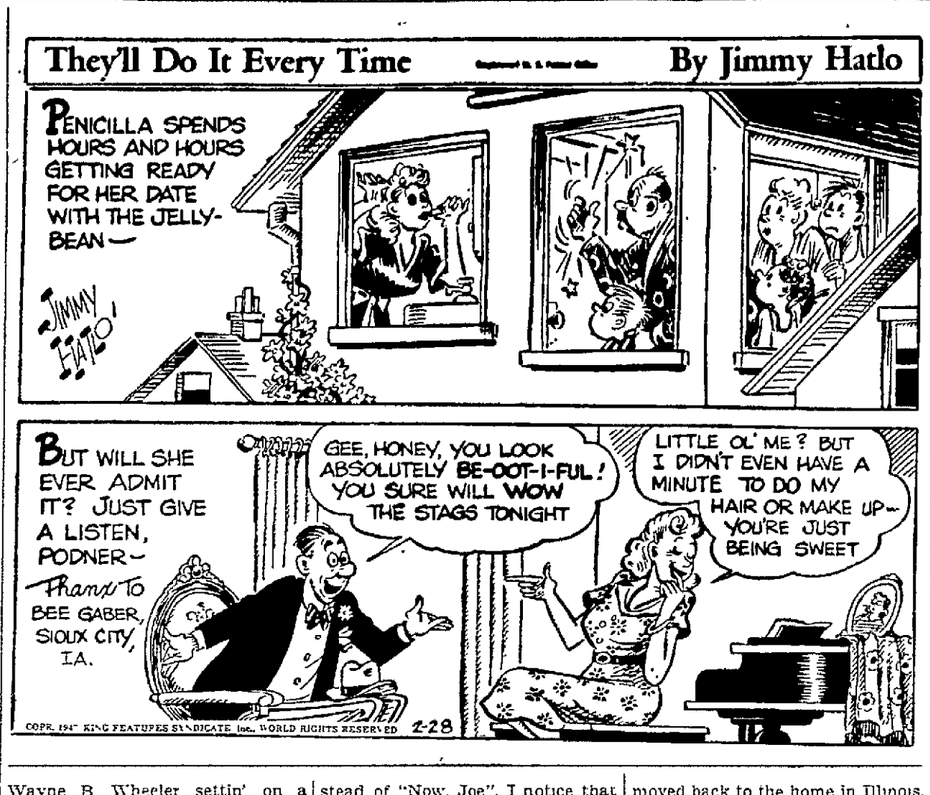

I am thinking that if the Republicans had him, at his present political size and with the class he has shown, not merely since election when he came on so stylish, but along in there when he was quietly passing the old new dealers on the turns they would have it all. The Democrats would have nobody then because he is all they have got.

Don't heckle me about his past with Pendergast or the way he stalls and fills in about union legislation or Lilienthal or the budget.

I keep coming back to him in spite of Pendergast. I don't reconcile it. I look him over and hear him in a voice that was made for talking to people and not to excite and make fools of them and I feel that still he is all-American and will belly up to Stalin and step on his toes and say "Listen, you" instead of "Now, Joe". I notice that he has ditched them all, Wallace, the widow and Ickes and made them tag along and it doesn't matter a damn to him if they don't, because if they quit him that will win him two votes for every one they can take away.

I can feel that he hates the communists and has been a very good ratter driving them out, even up to now.

I keep coming back to him, no wonderman, but George Spelvin, American, trimming a little but doing his best and with his pants a little knee-sprung from kneeling and not to Stalin, either.

GEORGE E. MOREY

Liscomb, Ia.—George E. Morey, 92, widely known retired farmer and for many years prominent in civic and business affairs of Liscomb, passed away shortly after 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Feb. 9, 1947 at St. Thomas hospital in Marshalltown, where he had been taken in an ambulance Saturday. Mr. Morey, who made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Hazel O'Conner for more than 20 years, had been in failing health for the past year, but had only been bedfast for two weeks. Death was due to infirmities of age.

The body was taken to the Biersborn funeral home in Union. Services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Christian church in Liscomb in charge of the pastor, Rev. T. M. Walton. Burial was in the Liscomb cemetery.

Born in Michigan

Mr. Morey was a son of Edwin and Harriet Maye Morey and was born June 4, 1855 at Earl's Mills, a small settlement near Kalamazoo, Mich. His parents had emigrated from New York state and had settled in Lee county, Illinois, near Dixon. In 1858 the family moved back to the home in Illinois, making the trip by covered wagon to what is now the Burkhart farm on the old Chicago road a few miles east of Shaws.

As a young man Mr. Morey farmed and had a general store and post office at Lee Center, Ill., for many years, selling out when he came to Liscomb in 1906. He was a nephew of Dave Tripp, one of the pioneers of Liscomb. He purchased the Lorenz Binbey farm on the west edge of Liscomb and he and his family lived there for eight years when they first moved here. Later he bought the John Burkhart farm northeast of Liscomb.

Besides his farming interests, Mr. Morey was in the hardware and grocery business for a number of years, being associated with Frank Meyers. He was active in civic affairs and served as mayor of the town and as a councilman for a number of years. He was a member of the Masons, serving as treasurer of Liscomo lodge for many years and on March 17, 1946 received his 50-year certificate of membership. He was a member of the M. W. A. lodge and of the Liscomb I. O. O. F. lodge. He also maintained his membership in the Congregational chuch at Lee Center.

Retired in 1914

Mr. Morey retired from active business in 1914 when he was 59 years of age and the family moved to Eldora, where they lived for four years, returning to the home in Liscomb. Mrs. Morey, the former Ella Derr, to whom he was married Sept. 8, 1880, in Lee Center, died March 31, 1925.

Mr. and Mrs. Morey were the parents of six children: Ernest, Edwin R., and Mrs. Hazel 'Conner of Liscomb. Three sons died in Illinois. There are 13 grandchildren and seven great grandchildren. Also surviving are a brother, E. L. Morey of Tucson, Ariz., and a sister, Elsie Complen of Portland, Ore.

Love Has Two Faces

XXXV

THREE days before Christmas it snowed during the night, a heavy wet snow, and the next morning the farm was a fairyland with every shrub and bush and tree heavily laden with white.

Cassie wasn't sick mornings any more. She came down early this morning and helped Mama mix the fruit cake.

"I wanted to get the cakes done in time to send one to Parker. Way off there in New York—fine Christmas he'll have."

"I wish you wouldn't mention him, Mama," Cassie cried suddenly. "I wish everyone wouldn't always keep harping on him!" She flung out of the kitchen and went into the long living room where Sid had lit a fine wood fire.

Mama followed her.

"You know what I think, Cassie? I think you're still in love with Parker."

"Don't say such things, Mama. It's silly," she said, trying to sound scornful.

A letter came from Leni, saying she was sorry she couldn't get home. It might be a long time before she saw them again. She was on her way to New Orleans, with some fellow she had met at the night club where she was singing. His family lived there. She was thinking of marrying him.

So Leni had given up the idea of marrying Parker, after all, Cassie thought. Leni was very changeable, wasn't she? But Leni had her own ideas about what she wanted from life.

* * *

CASSIE went out into the woods with Papa and Sid to cut the Christmas tree. They set it up in the living room.

"It's going to seem funny without Parker here," Papa said. "Seems like he's one of the family even though he ain't here any more," he added, in spite of Mama's dark look.

There was a box from Mike, mailed from New York. Nylons for Cassie, a musical powder box for Mama, books for Sid, and an enormous jar of imported tobacco for Papa.

Cassie helped Sid string popcorn and cranberries for the tree. She went to town with Papa in the truck and bought presents and wrapped them in her room.

But there wasn't any fun in any of it. It was like a dream, an empty, pointless dream, with no beginning to it and certainly no ending anywhere.

They were all sitting at the small table in the kitchen eating supper on Thursday evening when the telegram came from Parker. Mama had gone to the door and she came back smiling, the yellow paper in her hand.

"Listen to this," she said. "'SAVE ME A PLACE ON THE LIVING ROOM MANTLE TO HANG MY STOCKING. I'LL BE HOME FOR CHRISTMAS. LOVE TO ALL.'"

"Hurrah!" Sid cried. "Good old Parker! I knew he'd come!"

There was a sudden silence. Cassie could feel the color draining from her face. She pushed back her chair and went out of the room and upstairs, and got the big suitcase out of the closet. She was busy packing when Mama came up.

"Now Cassie, what you going to do?"

"Well I can't stay here," Cassie retorted. "You ought to realize that."

"I'd like to know why not. Ain't this your home?"

"It's your home, Mama, but it isn't mine any more."

"Cassie, you're being foolish. That's probably why Parker's comin' to begin with—to see you. And then to go and run away!"

* * *

"WHY should he come to see me?" Cassie said bitterly. "He probably knows as well as you do the divorce was all a mistake."

"It wasn't a mistake, and there's no reason why he'd want to see me. It's more probable that he doesn't know I'm here. I'd planned to go to California, remember?"

"But where can you go? And on Christmas too, and we planned such a nice Christmas." Mama began to weep into her apron.

"I'll go to Indianapolis and stay at a hotel."

"Spend your Christmas in a hotel? Oh Cassie! I won't let you go. I'm goin' to tell Papa he can't drive you to town!" Mama said suddenly with spirit.

Cassie finished her packing and put on her hat and coat.

Papa came into the bedroom hesitatingly. He gestured at her with the stem of his pipe. "What you goin' to leave for, Cassie?" he said regretfully. "I don't see why you can't stay. You and Parker could surely get along through Christmas, even if you ain't married to him any more. And your Mama's all cut up about your leavin'."

"Would you mind driving me to the bus station?" Cassie said. She drew on her gloves.

Mama and Sid kissed her tearfully and watched in hurt silence as she followed Papa down the snowy path to the truck.

In Indianapolis it was almost impossible to find a room, but she finally found one in a small hotel. The room was small and dingy and not too clean, but it didn't matter.

She spent a miserable night tossing on the lumpy mattress of the bed in the cheap hotel, and ate a tasteless breakfast in the tiny coffee shop, and then for want of anything else to do started for a walk. In the afternoon she went to a movie.

It was dusk when she returned to the hotel. And when she asked for her key at the desk, a tall figure disengaged itself from a chair behind one of the potted palms in the lobby.

Cassie's heart turned over. It was Parker.

Girl Scouts to Observe Anniversary of Founding March 12: Plan Local Exhibits

"Better citizens build a better world" is the theme for the 35th anniversary of Girl Scouting which occurs March 12. In observance of the founding of the organization Dixon Girl Scouts will have exhibits in several windows in the business district during the week of March 12-18. The displays will be prepared by the girls and their leaders.

Major purpose of the Girl Scouts is the development of character and citizenship. Since its founding in 1912, the organization has given girls good citizenship training, a chance to serve their community, wholesome outdoor and indoor entertainment and a moral code and sense of ethics understandable to young people. Facilities of the organization are open to all girls from seven to seventeen regardless of race, creed or color.

The first Girl Scout troop was organized in Savannah, Ga., by the late Juliette Gordon Low, who had become interested in it through her association with Lord Robert Baden-Powell, originator of the scouting movement for both boys and girls. By the end of the year 1912 troops were being organized throughout the country. Today Girl Scouting is being carried on in 8,300 communities with a total membership of 1,218,000. Additional troops of American Girl Scouts have been organized in nine foreign countries.

Since the founding of the organization; Girl Scouts have developed international affiliations. Today the members are conscious of world affairs and through their organization are provided channels of communication and cooperation with Girl Guides and Girl Scouts throughout the world.

Britain Reported to

British ambassador to this country, at a recent conference.

Should the United States decide to take over a large share of British commitments in Greece, and perhaps elsewhere, to help restore Europe's stability, it could well force a complete redrafting of this nation's plans for foreign reexpenditures.

This in turn might force an upward revision of both President Truman's budget estimates, a problem which in turn would affect the current congressional drive for trimming his $37,500,000,000 figure, tax cuts and debt reduction.

Hoover Makes Report

One key phase of relief costs, the problem of feeding occupied Germany, has brought a report to Truman from former President Herbert Hoover. After a personal review abroad, Hoover reported to the White House yesterday and went before the house foreign affairs committee today.

The Greek and related Middle East problems, as well as the European relief picture, could have constituted a situation serious enough for such a conference as that held at the White House yesterday. It brought together Marshall, the leaders of both parties on Capitol Hill, and the chairmen and ranking minority members of the house and senate foreign affairs and appropriations committee.

Should Britain find her resources so strained that it has become necessary to withdraw economic support from Greece, diplomats speculated it was likely she may have to curtail elsewhere commitments of her postwar policy.

Within the bounds of acknowledged uncertainty, observers fastened their attention on a half dozen of the world's trouble spots, ranging from the potentially explosive problems of the Near East to those o Turkey and the Dardanelles and other Mediterranean trouble spots, from relief in liberated lands to restoration of Germany's economy.

Over these hung a big and newly-emphasized imponderable—the ability of war-weary Britain to maintain her political and military commitments in the light of economic distress at home heightened by the coal shortage and its resultant industrial slowdown.

In the background was the still unanswered question: "what, if any, bargaining move did Russia have in mind when she gave her quick assent to the American proposal for United States trusteeship over the Pacific islands this country wrested from Japan?

Pledge of Secrecy

A solemn pledge of secrecy was exacted from the participants in the White House conference. None would go beyond this terse announcement by Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich) of the senate foreign relations committee:

"On the eve of Secretary (of state) Marshall's departure for Moscow we had a general discussion of the European problem which is involved in the approaching meeting."

To many on Capitol Hill, the presence of the lawmakers who pilot money bills through congress and of those who help mold basic foreign policy indicated that the conference was devoted to some type of relief.

This served to heighten interest in Hoover's appearance. He was called to present specifically his views on a measure authorizing the expenditure of $350,000,000,000 for aid in liberated lands where the interests of Russia and the western powers have clashed.

Hoover Recommendations

Immediately behind him was a report to Truman, with whom he left recommendations that the United States spend $475,000,000 in the 18 months, beginning last Jan. 1, to feed German civilians alone. The former chief executive described this as essential to restore peace and order in the "western world."

Back from a three weeks' food survey which he undertook at Truman's request, Hoover urged that such an expenditure for German belief be chalked up as a debt for collection in advance of any reparations payments.

There were other issues and other problems raised by the former president's report which seemed certain to be raised at today's committee session. Among them:

1. How far should this nation go in helping rebuild Germany's economy?

2. Will Britain, rationed and cold and economically weak, be able to match the United States contribution for German relief as Hoover recommended?

3. Should the United States commit herself to spend more in Germany lone than has been proposed for Italy, Austria, Poland, Hungary, Greece and China collectively?

4. Will the restoratio of Germany's economy—to speed relief for the American taxpayers as Hoover put it—be interpreted by Russia as part of a western power plan to build a buffer in Europe.

5 Would a congressional stipulation that German relief expenditures must be repaid before any reparations are exacted irk Russia, which already has sought some reparations from the Anglo-American occupation zone to rebuild war-tripped Soviet areas?"

For every person who tills the soil there is at least one other person who makes his living by processing, wholesaling, transporting, and retailing agricultural products.

cisco at 2:34 a. m. CST. Col. Thacker said they were flying at 20,000 feet.

Roaring eastward over the Great Plains, the ship swept over Chicago at 8:00 a. m. hitting a ground speed of 320 miles an hour.

Purpose of the flight was to determine future research and development requirements for planes and pilots to withstand the rigors of extended high-altitude operations on long escort missions.

The plane had planned to take off Feb. 15 but a leaky gasoline tank and poor weather forced several postponements.

Airports Alerted

Airports along the route were alerted and at small airports across Ohio and Pennsylvania men gazed tensely at the sky, momentarily expecting the flight to end in their own fields.

But Col. Thacker pushed his plane on.

As the Betty Jo taxied to a standstill, Col Thacker, his face grey with fatigue but smiling happily, swung out on a wing.

Suddenly he glimpsed in the crowd his wife, Betty Jo, for whom the plane was named.

"Hey, look out!" he cried, leaping to the ground, "that's my wife!"

Flinging his arms around her he kissed her, shouting as if still speaking above the roar of engines, "I am kissing you now."

No Comparable Record

Co.-Pilot Lt. Ard leaped to the ground, almost directly into the arms of his wife, Doris, who ran around the plane tail to reach him. His features, somewhat dazed, broke into a wide grin as the two embraced.

There are no comparable records to that rolled up by the twin-engine fighter Betty Jo which covered the longest distance ever flown by a fighter plane.

A transcontinental record was set up by an Army plane—a single-engine P-80—on Jan. 26, 1946, when Col. William Council flew non-stop from coast to coast in four hours and 13 minutes.

The Betty Jo spans 51 feet in the wing and is 36 feet long in the fuselage. She is powered by two 2200-horsepower engines and comparable in appearance to two P-51 Mustangs built into one wing.

During the war P-51s were generally credited with making the longest-range fighter sweeps, making 1,700-mile round-trip flights from Iwo Jima to lower Honshu.

Friction Between

Chairman Taft (Ohio) of the senate labor committee already has said he wants to meet with the president when a bill is ready to determine whether Truman has any specific objections.

If the president and top GOP congress members reach any general agreement, it would be hailed as a demonstration that the two branches can work together despite their control by opposite parties.

The feling in congress, however, is that the possibility of any such agreement is slim because Democratic party leaders generally are regarded as courting the organized labor vote for the 1948 presidential campaign. Union leaders have opposed virtually all of the major suggestions thus far made for changes in the laws.

"Most of the passengers did this, but some were too afraid to get out. And some refused to leave their room.

Passengers Calm

"We raced along for about five or seven minutes.

"There wasn't too much screaming. Considering the terror, the people did marvelously well.

"The brakeman tried to apply the emergency brake but it wouldn't work. Something struck me. I don't know whether it was a person or something that broke loose.

"The brakeman asked the passengers to dig up newspapers so he could go out and light flares to warn other approaching trains.

"It was dark inside and out for it was about 3:25 a. m. We lit the newspapers and in their glare we saw several flares that fortunately had dropped from the car. We lit these and a New York train (the Jeffersonian bound for St. Louis) came along and picked us up."

Quicfrez REDUCES PRICES $50.00!

ALTHOUGH production costs are still high and many of our dealers are still waiting for deliveries, the Sanitary Refrigerator Co. is glad to give this liberal price reduction through their dealers as our mutual contribution towards bringing business back to a normal and stable flow of merchandise at attractive price levels.
WE BELIEVE the pent-up desire for Sanitary Quicfrez represents a steady and long term market, which should be served at a sensible price.
IT IS HOPED that current shortages which now hold back production of Sanitary Quicfrez will soon be a thing of the past so that the increasing production volume during the following months will compensate for this price reduction.

DUKES ENGAGE POLO IN REMATCH

Bobtales

By BOB FALLSTROM

Sideline observations of last night's show . . .

Two of the Stars—Robert "Sonny" Lee and Lt. Paul Brede, Honolulu policeman who acts as manager—are bedded down in a local hotel, the victims of northern Illinois' low temperatures.

"They contacted colds that developed into the flu," R. J. Saperstein, handling the team's business interests, remarked. "It's the first time most of the group has been to the states and they find the weather somewhat chilly. But we've had pretty good luck, considering the fact we've got a group of 15 acclimated to the tropics."

The Stars' round-trip air bill from Honolulu to San Francisco was $6,037.50. It's estimated their current limited tour will cost in the neighborhood of 20 G's . . . proving that travel is stimulating but also expensive.

George Lee, the 6-7 Korean center, had Bob Marshall, B & A's lanky pivotman, tied in knots. When Marshall grabbed the ball, Lee simply raised his arms, providing a formidable barrier.

As to entertainment, well, we think it was a mighty nice show. The group, consisting of Renny Brooks, Mignon "Miki Lani" Fo, Tom Pedro, Barbara "Sugar" Holt and Angeline "Pineapple" Hopkins, presented four numbers from the center of the court.

Applause was spirited, especially when the hula queens went into motion. Clothed in dusty pink costumes (to steal a phrase from the society columns), the girls gently swayed through two numbers, drawing hoots, whistles and wolf calls.

All eyes were on the undulators. Brooks summed up the story by shouting, "watch the hands!"

Togged in a native-like "dress" of red print material and swathed with orange leis, Brooks nearly swiped the show with his special "shake" act. The tubby showman, dubbed "Tidal Wave" by publicitors, added some new twists and "bumps", his body shaking in a wave of mirth.

Possessing a huge lead, the Stars eased up during the final session, concentrating on a neat ball-handling exhibition.

Flipping the leather back-hand, sideways and several other directions, the Stars bewildered Knacks' man-to-man defense in a comprehensive "stall" maneuver.

A word about the first game. The fans got a "boot" when Knacks rallied to cut the count. And when Witzleb slipped in his two final-minute buckets, the noise was terrific.

Dixon always relishes a triumph over Sterling . . . be it high school varsity or otherwise. Last night was no exception to the rule.

Mel Leseman, who plagued the Dukes many times, is still as effective as ever. His one-hand toss was potent, nine attempts splitting the nets.

But Witzleb overshadowed the dark-haired speedster by racking up 13 points in a single half's work.

Tonight the Dukes will be in action, on the first lap of a rough two-night stand against Polo and Rock Falls.

Much talk was circulated after the Purple met these teams earlier. Much was directed to "unfortunate incidents" that occurred in both games.

The high school has assured us those "incidents" will not be repeated on the floor. However, they cannot supervise onlookers, who often are responsible for untasteful situations.

Let's show Rock Falls and Polo we're good sports regardless of the outcome on the court. Don't do or say anything that might darken Dixon's reputation. In other words, just use common sense!

Shank Scores 41 Points in 3 Tilts

Mt. Vernon, Ia.— (Special) — An improved Cornell quintet, winners of five of seven games since Jan. 25, will attempt to wind up the season with a repeat conference win over Carleton college when they invade the Northfield, Minn., hardwood Saturday night.

Although the Carls do not possess a high conference record, they haven't been defeated on their home floor since early December.

The Purple handed Coe college its fourth Midwest conference loss here Saturday night, 50-45.

Coe ran to a nine-point lead, 25-16, in the first half. In the second half, Cy Shank of Dixon, Chuck Jacot and Bob Horsfall collaborated to literally scorch the nets in Alumni gym and with two minutes to play had the game on ice, 50-40.

Shank, who has been working at a regular forward spot, posted four baskets in the first four minutes of the second period and added two more and a free throw the rest of the way. He was held scoreless in the first session. In the last three contests Shank has accounted for 41 points.

GAME FACTS

EVENT—Non conference game.
PLACE—Dixon high school gym.
TIME—Prelim at 7 p. m. varsity game to follow.
COACHES—Lee Davison (Dixon), Bob Breckenridge (Polo.)
OFFICIALS—Al Brown and Milt Vaughn, both of Rockford.

Dixon's Dukes open a busy final week end of basketball this evening.

Polo's Marcos Blackhawk conference champs, provide the opposition at DHS gym tonight and then tomorrow the unbeaten Rock Falls Rockets come to town for a spectacular showdown game.

The Dukes will be out for revenge in each instance. Both opponents dealt out previous defeats, Polo winning, 38-32, Feb. 1 and Rock Falls squeezing out a 37-36 triumph on Jan. 31.

Dixon hasn't been licked since the first Polo fray. They've disposed of Rochelle, Princeton and Sterling to carry a three- game win skein on the floor tonight.

Polo hasn't fared as well in the meantime, dropping decisions to Morrison (37-36) and Hononegah of Rockton (40-38 in overtime), while licking Amboy (30-26). Mt. Carroll (44-41) and Mt. Morris (40-30).

Win 16 Times

The Marcos' record in all games is 16 wins and five defeats. Dixon's overall mark is eight wins and nine losses.

A brother combination, Edward and Edmund Raley, are expected to cause Dixon the most trouble this evening. Both are big, fast and deadeye shots.

Edward will open at center with Edmund in the backcourt. Their running mates are expected to be Forwards Norman Knudson and George Smith and Guard John Clayton.

Coach Lee Davison will counter with his usual five of Joel Lehman, Jack Schultz, Bryan Cannon, Loren Munson and George Wallace. Lehman is again in tiptop shape after sitting out the Sterling game due to double charley horses of the legs.

Lights Seek No. 7

Davison would undoubtedly welcome a chance to play reserves at least part of the game, giving needed rest to the regular five. Polo and Coach Bob Breckenridge may have other ideas, however.

A chance to add victory No. 7 in a row will be afforded the lightweight aggregation in the 7 p. m. prelim.

Coach Wally Coon's outfit beat Polo the first time these clubs met by a 33-29 count.

ENTRANCE INFO

The doors of DHS gym will be thrown wide at 6:30 p. m. tonight. Principal B. J. Frazer announced yesterday.

Tomorrow night, fans will be admitted at 6:15 o'clock for the Rock Falls tilt, sure to jam-pack the stands.

Morrison Seeks RRVC Cage Title

Basketball's last regularly scheduled evening of play comes up tonight with only a scattering of games arranged.

Morrison's Mustangs (10-1) can clinch the Rock River Valley conference title by downing Amboy (5-6). A loss would result in a first place deadlock between the Mustangs and Polo's Marcos, who finished last week with 10 victories and two losses.

Other RRVC closers are Rochelle (6-5) at Mt. Morris (5-6), and Oregon (3-8) at Mt. Carroll (0-11).

Only one NCIC game will be played. Geneseo traveling to Hall Township. Second place rides on the contest for the Spring Valley boys, currently carrying a 5-2 record. Geneseo has won two of seven starts, including a 41-42 overtime upset of DeKalb Tuesday.

Mendota of the NCIC hits the road for a tussle with Bloom Township at Chicago Heights while DeKalb winds up on its home floor opposite highly regarded Crystal Lake.

Prophets vs. Fulton

In the Big Eight, Elgin plays host to LaSalle-Peru. East Aurora meets Freeport, East Rockford duels West Aurora and Joliet engages West Rockford.

Princeton's Tigers meets St. Bede's Academy at Peru. And Prophetstown Dixon's initial regional foe Wednesday, battles strong Fulton.

Meantime, three of the state title favorites— Kewanee, Paris and Champaign—meet stiff opposition.

Kewanee Meets Rock Island

Kewanee, seeking its 23rd victory, must overcome the home floor advantage of a strong Rock Island quintet that five weeks ago dealt the Boilers their only setback. The Northwest conference crown goes to the winner.

Paris aims for win No. 32 against South Shore of Chicago while Champaign attempts to post its 26th triumph against Mattoon.

Sunday evening at 7:15 Ned Sack and Harold Peach will take over the alleys at the Recreation for their four-game series to determine who will represent Dixon in the Blackhawk Bowling Proprietors Inter-City championship. These matches have always been close-fought affairs and this should be no exception, and will be well-worth watching . . . Frank Dashbach was the most consistent kegler in the Commercial league last night with 144-145-145, which is just about the figure we'd take to go around his Plum Hollow golf course this summer . . . Out at Lincoln Lanes one Tuesday night we heard Alice Oehl moaning low to her teammates about a 129 game she had, so she surely must have sympathized with hubby, Vincent, last night when he came up with 126-76-101 for 303 . . . Virg Childers had two nice games last night 169 and 161 in the last two, but wonder what was on his mind in the first one when he counted 104 . . . Orville Legore also lost his right to instruct his wife, Luwanna when he totaled 404 on the same squad . . . Ken Johnson made quite a jump last night after starting with 190 and then upping it to 230 in his second, but we can't mention that without also noting that he dropped 113 pins in his last set to end with 117 . . . Les Brotherton also had his ups and downs when he started with 151, raised it to 247 and then slumped to 163 . . . This is the last day for the girls to qualify for the Blackhawk roll off and 32 of them will enter the first eliminations Sunday . . . Also remind you if you intend to get in on the mixed summer loop you should turn your name in at once, one full team was still needed Wednesday and two or three extra men and girls to fill out the other fifteen squads which will soon start their post-season rolling.

DECISIONS TONIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

The field of smaller high schools eyeing the 1947 prep basketball title will be whittled to 61 tonight as competitors in district tournaments enter the final rounds.

Approximately one-fourth of the 417 district entries remained today after a number of schools fell by the wayside in semi-final round last night.

Hawaiians Win Last Eve

Stands Full for Feature Court Event

A capacity crowd that jammed Dixon high school gym last night was treated to a fine card of basketball and entertainment featuring the Hawaiian All-Stars.

The Stars had little trouble disposing of B & A Knacks by a 62-38 count. But the Dixon cagers copped a slam-bang 47-44 win over the Sterling Moose in the prelim.

Entertainment provided by five Hawaiian show people was presented between halves of the second game amid accompanying whistles, shouts and cheers.

Playing B & A the first two periods, the Stars ran up 44 tallies on accurate pot-shots from behind the free line, limiting B & A to 19 points.

The islanders impressed with slick ball handling, plenty of drive and a skillful passing technique. Forward Paul Kim and Guard Peter Chum each hit five baskets against the sporting goods boys.

Knacks Outscore Stars

Mike McDonald, Bob Cramer and Bob Marshall collected a pair of two-pointers for the Dixonites.

Knacks took the floor for the second half. Again Dixon counted 19 points, outscoring the Stars, who garnered 18 but passed up numerous chances late in the final session.

The first tilt was a torrid exhibition, Bill Witzleb pulling out the Dixon win with two buckets in the final 40 seconds of play after the Sterling outfit had led all the way.

Stage Uphill Fight

B & A, competing in the initial half, left the floor on the short end of a 25-17 score. But Knacks staged an uphill drive, paced by Witzleb's 13 points, to close the gap and continue to victory as the stands rocked with noise.

Roger Bivins was B & A's top pointmaker with seven markers. Mel Leseman, ex-Sterling Township court ace, flipped in nine one-handers and a gifter for the Moose scoring honors.

City Championship Game Monday Eve

Dixon's city cage championship will be decided Monday evening when Knacks and B & A, who finished in a deadlock for City league honors, square off in DHS gym.

A prelim tilt, at 7:15 p. m., pits an Old Timer quint, coached by Duke Mentor Lee Davision, against Watt Four.

Both of the title contestants wound up their loop slates with seven victories and a lone loss. Each team won in two previous meetings, B & A turning the trick 26-22 and Knacks reversing the decision, 28-26, in an overtime scrap.

Should Be Fun

Coach Davison, commenting on the game last night, remarked, "they'll play man-to-man, all over the floor!"

The championship affair shapes up as a real "grudge" match. Both clubs want the title badly. Both delight in beating one another. This rubber match should be the best of 'em all.

HOLCOMB TO PURDUE

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 28—(AP) —Stuart K. Holcomb., assistant coach of the Army team at West Point for the last three years, has signed a five-year contract as head football coach at Purdue university. Guy (Red) Mackey, Purdue athletic director, made the announcement today.

S. Central Takes 2 from Loveland

South Central won a double-bill from Loveland in the grade school league last night, taking the prelim, 15-11, and the heavyweight tilt, 43-15.

Bay paced the south side boys with six points in the first game and Ruth collected seven for Loveland.

Kelly Kappler hit 19 points in the second battle for South Central, Kernan chipping in with 15 tallies. Pettinger was top man for Loveland on nine points.

The Ohio quint will meet Manlius, 49-35 conqueror of Tiskilwa, for the right to advance to Princeton's regional.

Somonauk won at Newark while Hebron continued in the running with a 56-32 win over St. Mary's of Woodstock.

Meet in Finals at Franklin Grove

Franklin Grove, Feb. 28—(Special) — Steward and Lee Center meet tonight in the final of Franklin Grove's district tournament, the winner advancing to Sterling's regional meet next week.

Steward entered the title bracket last night by pounding out a 50-39 victory over Franklin Grove as Bob Macklin and Chuck Ross collected 10 points each.

Lee Center took a 2-0 forfeit decision when West Brooklyn, 50-23 winner over Compton, failed to appear for the game. Lee Center has yet to play a game in the tourney.

Dick Crowell snagged 16 points for Franklin but Steward jumped away to a 26 - 11 half-time advantage and was never seriously pressed.

Huge Oil Line to Snake Over Arabian Desert

American experts are now en route to Saudi Arabia to plot the conquest of the Arabian desert so that one of the world's greatest oil pipelines may be run from newly discovered oil fields near the Persian Gulf to the Mediterranean Sea. On map above, last segment of pipeline is indicated by dotted line, as terminus port is yet undesignated. Diagonally shaded area shows oil concessions jointly owned by the Texas Co. and Standard Oil of California. After a year and a half of planning, actual construction, using up to 6000 Arab laborers, will take another 18 months. Economy of pipeline, including elimination of 70-cents-a-ton toll at Suez Canal, is expected to enable oil to undersell coal as fuel in Europe.

There's a place for YOU in the 4-H parade!

Rewards for 4-H Work are many and varied. Picnics, camps, trips and outings are only a few. Each year state winners, like the group above, are chosen to attend the annual National 4-H. Club Congress in Chicago where they vie with winners from other states for National Honors.

Recreation and Responsibility come with the social activities and business meetings which are held at regular intervals by the 4-H Clubs and their nearly 1,700,000 members. Here the happy Sandy Ford Jrs. display a few of their domestic projects at the LaSalle County Home Economics Show.

JOINING THE RANKS of the 35,000 boys and girls who are members of Illinois 4-H Clubs is a pleasure and a privilege for young and old alike. Membership in this world-wide rural organization provides both parents and children with many advantages. It provides an opportunity to participate in clubwork that teaches skills and knowledge of permanent value. It teaches community leadership, gives them experience in democratic living, and fills the need for wholesome recreational and social activities.

Another National 4-H Club Enrollment Week is here. Parents are urged to encourage their children and other children to join the local 4-H Club. If there is no local club, a group of five or more is all that's needed to start one. Perhaps you can serve as its leader or help secure 4-H for your community. Don't miss this chance to voluntarily act as friend and counselor to Young America.

Livestock Projects are favorites with thousands of 4-H'ers like Phil Firkin and his assistant club leader, John Olson. Competition at 4-H Club Fairs provides fun and frolic . . . brings about livestock improvement . . . helps establish business contacts that will be of help in the future.

Head, Heart, Hands, and Health team up to make an unbeatable combination wherever 4-H'ers like the Flonagin Hustlers meet. Rural boys and girls between ages of 10 and 20, in a group of 5 or more, perform specific farm and home duties under the supervision of a local 4-H Club adult leader.
